Final Products - Video Script

"Where is the love during the COVID - 19 pandemic?" is a video based on the song "Where is the love?" by the Black Eye Peas, in which different social problems are discussed, such as terrorism, racism, wars and intolerance. Besides that, the song asks to us where is the respect, empathy and love in our society.

Our audiovisual project is going to have scenes and pictures focused on historical facts about those topics, specially during the COVID - 19 pandemic. Moreover, the soundtrack is going to be the song "Where is the love" by the Black Eye Peas, and at the end of the video, we are going to appear and discuss the, message of the song.

Before we chose this song, we had reflected that during the COVID -19 pandemic, even with the dangerous virus that affected socially and economically the world, many people didn't give importance to overcome the pandemic together. Moreover, social isolation has affected people who tend to feel angry and depressed very often.⁸

One example is when an innocent black man, George Floyd, was murdered by the police in 2020. The fact is that even if abolished by law, slavery and racial segregation in the country of freedom have left racist legacies that are reflected in various sectors of American society, whether in poverty rates or in the police violence opened up by the Floyd case and so many others.

Regardless of a pandemic, to deal with intolerance, prejudice and violence, we must invest in quality education, as it is through it that we learn to execute citizenship and ethics and, above all, respect others. Furthermore, we must always have empathy and help others, because every action of love present in ourselves will make a difference for a more just and welcoming world.
